Planned National Grid Electricity System Operator Outage on Thursday 11 April 2019

What is happening?

We have been notified by National Grid Electricity System Operator that there will be an Electronic Data Logger (EDL) outage between 11:30 and 12:30 (BST) on Thursday 11 April 2019. The outage is to facilitate the testing of the new servers for the BM systems.

The EDL outage will affect the submission of Dynamic data and submission and acceptance of Bid-Offer instructions. Please note that the EDL outage will not affect Electronic Data Transfer (EDT) and all data can still be submitted via this process.

How will I be affected?

No other systems will be affected. Parties were advised of this outage in an email from National Grid on 20 March 2019 that this would be scheduled for the 11 April 2019 but no times were confirmed.

If you have not received this email, please contact the following address:

BOX.IS.ChangeForum@nationalgrid.com.

Please ensure that control points have been made aware of the EDL outage and that they may have to take verbal instructions from the Electricity National Control Centre (ENCC).
